

Michael Pantoja- Working with Michael was fun. We both love cars and are passionate about cars so making a website all about different cars was definitely something we wanted to make look good. Michael and I kept going back and forth with what cars we wanted to do and different design ideas which made it even more fun because it got our creativity working. I believe our end result could have definitely been made even more perfect but we are happy with how things turned out.